INTRODUCTION

The Civil Survey.

THE immediate circumstances leading to the taking of the Civil Survey (1654-6) were the statutory commitments of successive Parliaments, in England, in respect of advances of money, by way of adventure, and of the arrears of pay due by the Commonwealth Government to its own officers and soldiers. These obligations were to be satisfied in allotments of Irish land and, as a preliminary measure of enquiry, a survey of the country, founded upon the authentic information of the old inhabitants was directed to be made. The barony was selected as the territorial basis of the survey, as it was to be the ultimate area in which the allotments to the interests concerned were to lie. The extensive information required was of a geographical, proprietorial and economic nature and, for this purpose, the most able of the residents were to be constituted juries. These were to be empanelled by local commissioners appointed under commission.¹

In more than one of the commissions authorizing the survey, and directing the procedure to be followed, the survey to be made was distinctly named the Civil Survey. It was to be made under the jurisdiction of special courts called Courts of Survey. These Courts were to determine and record the possessions of the proprietors of lands and the tenures and titles of their respective estates. For this purpose, power was given to summon, and examine upon oath, such persons as might be considered competent to assist in the discovery of the facts; and further, to demand the production of such evidence of title as was considered necessary. Here, an analogy may be found to those courts which take cognizance of questions of fact only, arising between man and man in his civil capacity. Allowing that the Survey was made under the Civil Authorities, and, also, that it was made by the people, or their most knowledgeable men, it is suggested that the Civil Survey was so called because it would be essentially a testified record of the facts concerning the possessions of the subjects, the citizens, and declared to on oath before courts appointed to ascertain such facts.

The Civil Survey was begun in June, 1654, and commissions continued to be issued during 1655 and 1656. Through the zeal and industry of the late W. H. Hardinge, Esq., M.R.I.A., its territorial extent, the names of the commissioners, and the dates of their commissions can be ascertained.² As to the extent of the Civil Survey, it comprehended the whole of Leinster, the whole of Ulster, with the exception of the barony of Farney, in the county of Monaghan; the whole of Munster, with the exception of Clare; in Connacht, only the county of Leitrim was surveyed. This represented in all a Civil Survey of twenty-seven counties. For the remaining five, the earlier survey, called Strafford's survey, was available. According to the Book of Distribution, the Gross Survey—the survey immediately preceding the Civil Survey, was utilised for the barony of Farney.

What has survived of the Civil Survey extends to parts of three provinces, namely, for Munster—Tipperary, Limerick, Waterford, the barony of Muskerry, Co. Cork and part of one barony in Kerry; for Leinster—Dublin (except New Castle and Upper Cross), Kildare (except Ophaley), Meath, Wexford (except Forth) and the city of Kilkenny; for Ulster—Donegal, Londonderry and Tyrone.

From this survival of the Civil Survey, and from the Commission and Instructions which have been preserved, the functions of the commissioners, the duties of the juries, and the method of exhibiting their survey may be learned.

The functions of the Commissioners included the holding of Courts of Survey, and in having their ascertained particulars engrossed in one or more books, each barony by itself. These engrossments were to be returned, attested under the hands of three or more of the Commissioners, to the Surveyor-General and a duplicate, in like manner, fairly engrossed, attested and sealed up to the Registrar for Forfeited Lands. It appears from the list of the Commissioners, for each county, that the same set operated in several counties. Thus, in Ulster, the identical Commissioners were appointed for Antrim, Armagh and Down, and likewise another similar set for Derry, Donegal and Tyrone. In the south and east the same Commissioners were appointed for Waterford and Queen's County; and again the one set for King's County and Longford.

Before the Civil Survey was begun, it was recommended that the Commissioners to be appointed should be the Commissioners of Revenue "upon the place" or "other able and knowing men in the country." The names, which have been preserved, can be identified with the family names associated with the landed settlements in Ireland, for a period considerably more than fifty years prior to the Survey. In the north, particularly, the Commissioners would appear to have been proprietors of land. From time to time, new Commissioners were appointed, as the attestations to the Survey, which has survived, show. Mr. Hardinge's list is that of the original Commissioners.

The duties of the local juries were of the widest and most responsible nature. They were to be given "in charge to inquire and find out all and every the particulars" required to be ascertained. They were, when necessary, "to view and tread the meets and bounds of the premises, and to forme all such other matters and things as are perfectly inquirable in courts of survey . . ." These juries were composed—as was indeed attested¹—of "the most able and ancient Inhabitants of the country." Their names have survived for all the baronies of two counties—Tipperary and Limerick. It is possible to identify some of these jurors as proprietors, and it would not be an unreasonable conjecture to assume, in most cases, that they were relatives of proprietors—brothers or elder sons. The juries for corporate towns appear to have been composed of the mayor, aldermen and burgesses, together with representatives of the professional and business interests. Additional jurors were added as assistants by special order. The name of the clerk appointed by two of the Limerick juries is given, at the end of the lists of jurors for the barony of Pobblebrien and of the Liberties of Limerick.

Distinct juries were appointed for each barony and were selected, as stated, for their special knowledge of the territories within which they resided. The number comprising each jury varied. In Limerick they ranged from twenty-four to forty-five for each barony; in Tipperary, from ten to twenty-three. For the distinct surveys to be made of Crown and Church lands the same jurors, in the latter county, were appointed.

The survey of each barony opens with a description of its meares and bounds, and, frequently, with an exposition of the nature of its soil. Its contents according to the old land measure is set down, and the description concludes with an account of the parishes, manors and castles within the barony.¹ The boundaries of the parish follow, and at the end of each description, in the Tipperary text, there is a statement as to the value of the tithes. The lands comprising the parish, their owners, estimated area, what was profitable and unprofitable, and the respective valuations are then set out in tabular form, intersected by further descriptive particulars relating to the tenures or titles under which each denomination was held. Here the ancestral tenures of the Gael, and the Norman, existing in 1640, are exhibited and recorded, as well as titles "by patent from the Crowne."

Instances of the former will be found in the barony of Ikerrin, within the text of volume one. There, the whole parish of Killea is shown to have been individually and "moyetively" distributed between numerous proprietors "all descended out of the house of O'Magher whose title they clayme (viz.) by fee from their ancestors." It is recorded of each that he was the proprietor of the fractional proportion specified by descent from his ancestors. These inherited divisions, the meares of which could "by no way be set forth distinctly" represented, doubtless, the shares to which the proprietors were entitled, individually, in the productivity of the soil. Whether the division was in pursuance of a Brehon decree, or family arrangement, is not recorded. But there is extant for certain lands in the neighbouring barony of Lower Ormond a copy of a Brehon judgment, dated 8th October, 1584, regulating the tenures thereof, and which directs "an honest, equal, brotherly division with each other according to the custom of their ancestors."²

In addition to the tenures, the description of the lands includes an account of their amenities. The area under timber, its distance from the nearest port, the presence of mills, and the varying succulence of rivers and streams, according to the season of the year, are amongst the particulars recorded³ in this section of the Civil Survey. And so, until every parish in the barony was completed.

Thus emerged the "old inhabitants" survey of their country, of its place-names, rendered phonetically into English of the time, of its ancient tenures, of its land measures and territorial divisions. It extended far beyond the discovery of forfeited lands, Crown lands, Church lands, the lands of the English and of Protestant lands—their owners, and estimated areas. It revealed and preserved the memory of the ancient bounds, place-names, and antiquities of three provinces. It comprehended the detection of the wealth and valuation of the country, in every form under and above the surface of the land. The Civil Survey is not limited to defining the boundaries of forfeited lands; it records the boundaries of baronies "and the course that the said meets and bounds doe runne." It gives independent dealings with lands, transfers by sale, bequests by testament, mortgages, and marriage settlements. It is a description of the physical features of the land from the highest to the lowest denominations—a geography of its mountains, its high roads, its rivers and streamlets, and simultaneously a record of the ownership and title to the lands which these natural boundaries surrounded or divided.

³ Notably for the southern counties.

The purpose of the survey has been stated by Mr. Hardinge : " Many persons are under an impression that the Civil Survey was designed as the basis of the satisfactions afterwards made to the soldiers for arrears of pay due to them, and that it was rejected by the Government in consequence of complaints of its inaccuracy. Such an impression is altogether erroneous. This survey was not designed for the purpose assumed. It was a preliminary work, essential to the discovery and description in a legitimate and solemn manner of the forfeited lands, and from which lists technically called ' terriers ' were afterwards supplied to the several surveyors for their admeasurement and mapping.

" It was by these maps, and their index sheets, when approved by the Surveyor-General, and sanctioned by Government, and not by the Civil Survey, that the land satisfactions were made to the soldiers and adventurers, as well as to the other interests afterwards let in by the Acts of Settlement and Explanation."

In the indexing of each barony, a uniform method was adopted throughout. The proprietors were distinguished by separate indexes, that of the English usually coming first, and the Irish next. An index of the lands followed¹ these, and then an index of " Observations."² The place-names, however, in the barony and parish descriptions were not indexed ; nor were the personal names referred to in the descriptive particulars relating to the title to lands by descent, through patent or conveyance. A full index will be forthcoming with the complete publication of the text for each county.

The pagination, in one respect, was also uniform. Each page was numbered at the top of the right-hand corner, and the index was based on this pagination. In some baronies, however, there is recorded a second pagination, on alternate pages. It occurs either at the bottom or side of the page, and suggests a reference to the folios in which the first entries may have been made.

As directed, a number of the Commissioners, usually three, attested or certified the survey of each barony. Their names appear at the end, appended to statements certifying how and when the Survey was made. A statement as to the holding of the Courts of Survey, followed by the names of the jurors,³ precedes the description of each barony in Tipperary. The names of the Limerick jurors " sworn and empanelled to enquire of and return an exact Survey " appear after those of the Commissioners at the end of the baronies. The jurors for County Dublin are described as " the most knowing and sufficient men," though their names are not returned. The jurors for Waterford are described as " the most able and ancient inhabitants of the country." The northern Commissioners certified that the Survey was taken by them, and recorded the date.

When completed, the Civil Survey was to be forwarded to the Surveyor-General, and a duplicate sent to the Registrar for forfeited lands. The former set, according to Mr. Hardinge, unquestionably reached its destination. He refers to the statement of Surveyor-General Stone that it was consumed in the fire of 1711. " This statement implies," says Mr. Hardinge, " that the set was complete, and in this office when the fire occurred, but the statement is inaccurate. A large portion of the set had been removed from the Surveyor-General's office . . . before the close of the year 1667—and was not afterwards restored." He then refers to the discovery, in 1817, by the Irish Record Commissioners, of eighty-four "original Civil Survey Barony Books" in the library of Viscount Headfort, at Kells, County Meath.

The subsequent history of these books is related in the Statement (see page xxxvii) of Mr. M. J. McEnery, M.R.I.A., Deputy Keeper of Records, and Keeper of State Papers, 1914-1921. Acquired by the Commissioners of Woods, Forests and Land Revenues, they were deposited in the Quit Rent Office, and ultimately transferred to the Public Record Office. Mr. McEnery points out the importance of this addition to the latter office, where it was available for public inspection. Copies of the volumes were then supplied by the Record Office to the Quit Rent Office. A separate statement shows the counties and baronies which these represent (see page xxxviii).

As to the duplicate set of Civil Survey barony books, destined for the office of the Registrar of Forfeited Lands, Mr. Hardinge says: "The set of barony books, which must be presumed to have reached the office of Registrar of Forfeitures, should have been transferred to the Auditor-General, as the other records of that office were, under the 60th section of the Instructions annexed to the Act of Settlement, about the year 1678; but there exists no evidence whatever from which to infer such a transfer; and I am of opinion that this set of barony books were appropriated antecedently to that year by some person officially, or otherwise, closely connected with the Office of Registrar of Forfeitures; and that at this moment they are reposing in some private library. . . ."

The hope expressed in 1862 by Mr. Hardinge, that the publication of his Memoir, on the Manuscript and other Surveys of Ireland, would evoke inquiry, especially in England, may now be renewed.

The legal framework within which the Civil Survey was begun and completed will now be referred to briefly.

The source of authority for the taking of the Civil Survey, resides in that code of English Acts and Ordinances—passed between the years 1642 and 1653, contemporaneous with the wars begun in Ireland towards the close of 1641. A survey of forfeited lands was contemplated from the outset, and the opening Act of the code prescribed the measure to be taken when the English Parliament should declare the existence of conditions which would permit of the survey being made.¹ By an Act passed in August, 1652, it was declared that a position had been reached when a settlement of the Irish nation might be effected.² "Early in 1653, when the Commissioners of the Parliament of England, for the affairs of Ireland, felt themselves in a condition to proceed with a survey of the forfeited lands, they had, as a necessary preliminary, to decide upon the manner of its execution. The ancient modes known in law were two:—1st, by inquisition out of the Chancery or Exchequer, after the precedents of the surveys of the Desmond forfeitures; 2nd, by commission under the great seal, after the precedent set by James I, in the survey of the six escheated counties. The latter mode was adopted."³ On the 22nd June, 1653, a Commission, with Instructions, under the Great Seal of England⁴ was addressed to Charles Fleetwood, Esq., Lieutenant-General of the Army in Ireland, Edmund Ludlow, Esq., Lieutenant-

General of the Horse, Miles Corbet, Esq., and John Jones.¹ It constituted them Commissioners for putting in execution the instructions, thereto attached, for a perfect survey and admeasurement of various classifications of lands. They were authorised to appoint Surveyors-General, and "Surveyors under them," and "to constitute a fit person of integrity for the Office of Registrar." This Commission, with Instructions, was ratified and confirmed by the Act for the "Satisfaction of Adventurers and Soldiers," passed on the 26th September, 1653.²

The Instructions, accompanying this Commission, prescribed the procedure to be followed, and the personnel to be employed in the three surveys directed to be taken—namely, a survey by inquisition, a survey by admeasurement, and what was called a "Gross Survey." Under-Surveyors, to be appointed by the Surveyors-General were directed "to enquire and find out" the landed interests of the inhabitants, and, also, what were Crown lands and Church lands; for this purpose they were empowered to hold Courts of Survey. For the survey by admeasurement "persons skilled in the art of surveying" were to be appointed, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, under the warrant of the Surveyors-General.

On the grounds of the utmost urgency the "Gross Survey," though the last to be named, was directed to be made first, irrespective of what the instructions provided, as to the other surveys. Commissions for this survey were issued, simultaneously, in August, 1653, to the public officers acting as commissioners of revenue, within the fifteen precincts into which the country has been divided. So unsatisfactory, however, were the returns from the Gross Survey,³ that official directions were given for the taking of abstracts from the Strafford surveys, and such "other papers, returns, or county books," as were available. The Gross Survey continued, however, until the following year, when it was suddenly stopped.⁴ Then, by an Order dated the 14th April, 1654, addressed to the Surveyor-General, Benjamin Worsley, Esq., the other surveys, authorised by the Commission, with Instructions, of 22nd June, 1653, were directed to be begun.⁵

The initial proceeding under this Order would appear to have been the consideration of the instructions to be issued for the making of the Civil Survey, and the Survey by admeasurement. A Committee was appointed for the purpose, by the General Council of Officers, and it reported on the 11th May, 1654.⁶ This report was mainly concerned with the principles and the methods to be adopted and followed in the admeasurement of estates and their surrounds. As to the Civil Survey, the procedure had been already fully indicated by the Instructions of June, 1653, and the Committee then added nothing to these save a recommendation on the subject of the Courts of Survey. For "their better performance," the Committee advised that the instructions to be issued should be directed to the "Commissioners of Revenue upon the place" or "other able and knowing men in the country." Whether by virtue of this recommendation or not, Commissions, with Instructions, began to be addressed, in the following month, to sets of Commissioners for each county in Ireland, excepting the counties of Clare, Galway, Mayo, Roscommon and Sligo. With regard to these counties "the Strafford survey, then extant, contained as specific an account of the lands, their proprietors and possessors, as any new work of the kind could do."¹

The sequence in which the Commissions, with Instructions, were sent to the local Commissioners was based on the priority of the appropriations of the counties of Ireland specified in the Act of Satisfaction of September, 1653. Ten counties, in the first place, were set aside for the satisfaction of the Adventurers and Soldiers, and the earliest Commissions, with Instructions, were issued in respect of these counties. Fortunately, specimens have been preserved and are reproduced (see page xxxii). It is from the examination of these that the magnitude of the Civil Survey will be learned.

Within this legal framework, the Civil Survey was begun. The last date of which there is any record for the issue of a Commission is the 1st September, 1656, for county Monaghan. Eighteen Commissions were issued in 1654, covering the same number of counties. There is strong evidence to support the opinion that the survey of these was completed before the summer of 1655, and a statement by Mr. Hardinge on this point will be quoted presently. Two-thirds of the work would, therefore, have been completed in about twelve months. For the remaining nine counties, seven Commissions were issued between 1655 and 1656; the Commissions for two counties—Cavan and Fermanagh, have not been found. While no definite date can be assigned for the completion of the Civil Survey, the year 1656 may be said to have witnessed the issue of the final Commissions under which its far-reaching enquiries were made.

It has already been stated that in more than one of the Commissions, the Surveys to be taken were distinctly named "The Civil Survey."² This is the specific and official appellation. Mapped admeasurements, contemporaneous with the Civil Survey, were at times also brought within this designation. "It was the unsatisfactory nature of the survey taken under this Order—the so-called Civil Survey—which led Petty to offer to undertake a more exact admeasurement of the forfeited lands in Ireland."³ This Order has been previously noticed. It was the Order dated 14th April, 1654, which, on the failure of the Gross Survey, directed the taking of the other surveys authorized in June, 1653. In pursuance of this Order, and by virtue of the Act of September, 1653, two distinct sets of instructions were issued; one to the local Commissioners, for the taking of the Civil Survey, and the other, some time later, to the surveyors who were to admeasure the forfeited lands according to certain rules. The Report of the Committee appointed "to consider the business of the Surveys," dated September 24th, 1654, clearly shows that it was the considered inadequacy of these rules that led to Petty's proposals "for a more exact admeasurement."⁴ The Civil Survey had been placed in other hands four months previously, and proceeded to a conclusion, in the manner first appointed, as what has survived of it definitely attests.

⁴ Larcom; Petty's Hist. Down Survey, pa. 10.

Neither in authorship nor correction can Petty be identified distinctly with it. Rather his total dependence on the Civil Survey is a distinguishing feature of its history.

The Instructions to the Local Commissioners directed that out of the surveys taken, abstracts containing the names of lands, and their boundaries, should be delivered to those authorized to make the admeasurements. Petty's contract of the 11th December, 1654, left this procedure undisturbed.¹ But time was the essence of this contract, so far as Dr. Petty was concerned. He had contracted to perform the work of admeasurement "within one year and one month next" after the date of his agreement. Immediately pressure began to be employed for one return or another. On the 20th December, it was ordered "that all commissioners which are employed in the civil survey do take care with all speed to furnish Dr. Petty or his assigns, with the abstracts of all the forfeited lands in each county and barony . . . to the end the said Dr. may be directed unto all and every of the said lands to be surveyed by him."² On the 25th December, the "Committee touching the manner of Surveys" requested the Lord Deputy to obtain from the Committee "for the Civil Survey" an estimate of all the forfeited lands both profitable and unprofitable.³ On the 12th February following a further Order was issued: "Ordered, that it be referred to the committee for removing obstructions in the surveys undertaken by Dr. Petty, to meet . . . and consider of the proceedings of the commissioners for the civil survey, and how the concealments of lands may be remedied, how far the present surveys may be of use, and what course is to be taken for having true and full civil surveys returned to remain of record for public use. And they are to treat with the commissioners-general concerning abstracts to be given of the civil survey."⁴ The explanation of the urgency that had arisen is manifest from Dr. Petty's "Humble Remonstrance concerning his extraordinary Grievances":⁵

"And first," he complained, "your petitioner sheweth that through the backwardness of the Civil Survey, and want of abstracts, he was exceedingly damnified. At first, that having none at all ready at the first sealing of his contract hee, notwithstanding, out of zeale to promote the service sett out sixty instruments to enquire of the country, which proved soe confused, as that the whole charge of what was done untill the latter end of February was wholly lost." That Dr. Petty required more than abstracts is evident from the continued expression of his grievances, thus:

"Ffor want of the bookes of the Civil Survey your petitioner hath been often put to the trouble and charge of two or three admeasurements instead of one." And, finally, he complained: "Your petitioner after long sollicitation finding noe hopes of having the civil survey of the countyes of Carlow and Wicklow, hath notwithstanding adventured to survey and measure them . . . to the end of the season for doeing the same might not slipp and bee lost, to the prejudice of the Commonwealth and the Army." In whatever quarter the delay may have rested, it can scarcely be ascribed to those charged with the taking and attesting of the Civil Survey. That, for the County Tipperary, for example, was completed, with the exception of two baronies, before the end of October, 1654, two months before the signing of Dr. Petty's contract. This will be seen from the separate statement on this county (see Vol. I., page xi). According to Mr. Hardinge, who had all the records at his disposal, "the Civil Survey of most of the baronies included within the said articles (Petty's agreement) was returned . . . before March 1655, and many of them before the date of Petty's articles of undertaking; so that no impediment interposed to prevent his making an immediate commencement of the admeasurement and mapping work." This certainly clears the jurors and local commissioners. It may be pointed out, however, that the Civil Survey was required for another purpose at this time. In the same month that Dr. Petty's agreement was made—December, 1654—Commissioners, commonly called the Athlone Commissioners, were appointed in connection with the Transplantation proceedings. "As the whole nation was declared guilty of rebellion it lay on each claimant to prove the extent and nature of his estate. To check the claimants the Commissioners were furnished with, amongst other books, the Civil Survey."¹

Whatever may have been the cause of the "backwardness" of which Dr. Petty complained, his "grievances" may be interpreted, perhaps, as being amongst the earliest tributes to the Civil Survey. It is to be apprehended, however, that if some of the surveys were to prove less informative in descriptive detail than others, the deficiency was to be related to the pressure residential either in Petty's contractual obligations for the performance of his own survey, or in the requirements of "The Court of the Commissioners for the Claims and Qualifications of the Irish."

The Civil Survey of Meath.

THE Civil Survey of Meath, described in the text as Eastmeath, was made under the authority of a Commission with Instructions dated 2nd June, 1654.¹ Though the Commission and Instructions are not available specimens of those issued for the adjoining county of Westmeath have been preserved, and are included in this volume (see p. xxxii). The county for which a Commission and Instructions have survived was with County Meath amongst the Ten Counties reserved by the Act of 26th September, 1653, for the particular purposes therein specified. It may be presumed that the terms of the Commission and Instructions for each of the Ten Counties were alike. The priority to be observed in the making of the Civil Survey of the territorial divisions of each of these was regulated by an Order dated 14th April, 1654,² directed to the Surveyor-General, and by the Instructions to the local commissioners of 2nd June in the same year. The baronies forming one of the two moieties into which each of the Ten Counties had been divided by allotments, on the 24th January, 1654, were to be surveyed first, namely, the baronies comprising the Soldiers moiety. The allotments in Meath resulted in the following division: (1) Kells, Moyfenrah, Duleek, Dunboyne, Ratoath and the half barony of Fore (Soldiers); (2) Skreene, Navan, Morgallion, Deece, Lune and Slane (Adventurers).³ A distinct Civil Survey was made of the foregoing baronies each volume being returned to Dublin attested as directed by the Instructions. The names of the Meath jurors, however, are not preserved, as in the Tipperary & Limerick texts, those of the Civil Survey Commissioners alone being recorded. The original commissioners appointed were Wm. Cadogan, Cadwaller Wynne, Bartholomew Foulke, Simon Crane, "and others."⁴ Under the names of Simon Crane, Cad. Wynne, Tho. Tresham, and Sil. Stirrop there is a uniform certifying statement at the end of each barony as to the taking of the Survey. The names of two other commissioners—Joseph Fox and Henry Morton, appear at the barony of Half Foore. All these attestations bear the one date, namely, the 23 March 1654 [5]. It will be observed that, in some instances, the commissioners names have been written down at the end of the baronial text, the certifying statement appearing on the last page of the baronial indexes.

The pagination of each barony is distinct in itself, and on it was based the full indexes supplementing the respective baronial returns. They include, in addition to the indexes of proprietors and lands, indexes of parishes and of "Observations," those for the latter specifying the pages where references to churches, abbeys, castles, mills, houses and so on are recorded. Where it has been found that either the names of lands or proprietors were omitted from these indexes, the omission has been rectified, square brackets indicating the correction. An effort, similarly denoted, has also been made to correct errors in pagination. Likewise, where it has been discovered that in the introductory lists of lands, preceding each parish survey, the names of lands returned in the succeeding text were not included in such lists, attention has been directed to the omission in a footnote. On the other hand where lands are thus listed in the preliminary table and yet not included in the later text, the Book of Survey and Distribution for Meath has been consulted and attention directed to the particulars available from this source. It is nevertheless desirable to collate these parish content tables, with the whole survey for the parish, having particular regard to sub-denominations which may not have been listed or indexed.

The certified copy of the Meath Civil Survey, in the Quit Rent Office, shows that the original text contained some pages which were completely blank save for pagination. Care has been taken to examine the indexes for the discovery of any proprietor or denomination of land there indexed against such pagination. Furthermore, in such instances, the text has been collated with the Book of Survey and Distribution to ensure its agreement in regard to the lands returned. From these precautionary investigations a probable explanation of the occurrence of these pages would be that they were either skipped or left blank for particulars subsequently entered elsewhere in the text. Footnotes indicate where these pages occur.

The Valuation of the lands of Meath as they were let, or worth to be let, in the year 1640 is not furnished by the present text. Since this information was one of the particular requirements of the Commonwealth Government, clearly specified in the Instructions to the local commissioners, it must be assumed that the valuation was made. There is confirmatory evidence of this, in a general sense, in Petty's own statement⁵ to the effect that in 1653 and 1654 Inquisitions had been taken of the "Values which all and every parcel of land in Ireland yielded in 1641." It is likely that the lists were not available or were mislaid when the other returns were ready for compilation and engrossment. It has been observed, however, from the Civil Survey text for Dublin county, yet to be published, that considerable disagreement existed between the jurors and the local commissioners as to the value of the lands surveyed in that county. The difficulty was resolved by the valuations of both parties being returned. It is possible that a similar disagreement existed with regard to Meath lands which had not been adjusted when the remainder of the Civil Survey had been completed. Students, however, are not without sources of a general⁶ and detailed nature on this subject both for a period closely contemporaneous with the Civil Survey as well as for the last decade of the seventeenth century. The Charter, for example, dated at Dublin, 7th May, 21, Charles II., to the Provost of Trinity College, granting to him lands in the Meath baronies of Lune, Kells, Navan and Skreene specifies for each denomination of land so granted the "valuation made by our Lieutenant and Council of our Kingdom of Ireland."⁷ Examination of the printed abstracts of the deeds⁸ of the Trustees of the Forfeited Estates in A.D. 1688 discloses that conveyances were made of lands representative of every barony in Meath. According to D'Alton⁹ the 1688 confiscations in Meath comprised 92,452 acres "valued at that time by the Trustees of the Forfeited Estates at £31,546 : 4 : 6 annual rent and £410,000 value." Detailed particulars of valuations for each denomination then forfeited are available in one of the MS. volumes—the Book of Forfeitures, appended to the Report of the Parliamentary Commission on Forfeitures, 1699. Particulars of these volumes, which are available in Trinity College, are furnished by the 56th Report of the Deputy Keeper, Public Records I. (p. 409).

The text furnishes distinct returns of Church lands, apart from glebes, over three baronial areas. These relate to the lands of the Archbishop of Armagh in the baronies of Lune and Morgallion, and to the lands of the Archdeacon of Meath in Kells barony. In Duleek barony the Archbishop of Armagh also appears as a proprietor in the course of the general text. For the temporalities of the Bishopric of Meath either as regards lands, or rents, there is no separate return. At p. 191 of this volume "Anthony, Bishop of Meath" is returned as the owner of the lands of Moyfin, Parish of Castle-rickard, Moyfenragh barony. This is the only entry throughout the text where such proprietorship affords a clue to the lands, or revenues from lands, of the Meath Bishopric. In this connection it may be pointed out here that the liberty at common law enjoyed by ecclesiastical persons and corporations to lease and alienate, without limit, Church lands was a hindrance to a full return by the Civil Survey of such lands.¹⁰ "The result of this state of the law was that the Church property in Ireland was improvidently leased and often wholly alienated. It was not until the year 1634-5 that this power of leasing and alienating without limit was taken away."¹¹ Towards the identification of the Church lands returned by the present text in lay proprietorship, other sources must be consulted notably, in the first instance, Ussher's "Certificate" of the Temporalities of the Diocese of Meath prefixed to his Visitation of 1622,¹² and Cogan's History of the Diocese of Meath.¹³ Ussher's return has been printed by Elrington as an appendix (V) to Vol. I of his Life and edition of Dr. Ussher's Works. It has also been printed, in an abbreviated form, by Father Cogan, as an appendix (VII) to the first of his three volumes of the History of the Diocese. The account by Ussher furnishes, in addition to the names of the manors and lands of the Bishopric, particulars, in most instances of the lands alienated or leased, the names of the ecclesiastical grantors, with those of the lay assignees or lessees, being also specified. The text of Father Cogan's History of the Diocese supplements this account by providing copies of, or extracts from, Fiants and Inquisitions relative to the alienated lands of the See of Meath. Thus, for the "Manor and Lordship" of Ardcaith, parish of Ardcaith, Duleek barony, he prints a License of Henry VIII,—not recorded by Ussher, to Edward Staples, Bishop of Meath to alienate this Manor.¹⁴ Practically all the lands constituting the Temporalities of the Diocese, as certified by Ussher, or lands out of which rents were reserved to the Bishopric, can be identified in the Civil Survey. Some observations are called for, however, in regard either to lands whose ownership is not disclosed by the present text, and which were in fact church lands or to lands returned in lay proprietorship, indicated as Church lands by official records closely contemporaneous with the Civil Survey.

The one instance where proprietorship is not recorded by the text is that regarding the lands of Ardrackan [Ardraccan], parish of Ardrackan, Navan barony, p. 232 of this volume,—the residence of the Bishops of Meath from an early date.¹⁵ The clue to the explanation of this somewhat striking omission is supplied by a note in the Meath Book of Survey and Distribution. "No proprietors mentioned [for Ardrackan] in the Civil Survey; returned College land by the Admeasurers." This latter statement would be correct as at the date of the Down Survey admeasurement of the barony of Navan—1656-57, but would not represent the position as to ownership for the date specified in the Instructions for the taking of the Civil Survey. The explanation of the omission lies in the fact that legislation had effected a change in ownership, the full significance of which it may not have been easy for the Civil Survey jurors to determine. This legislation consisted in an Act of the Parliament of England dated 8 March, 1649/50 and is entitled "An Act for the better Advancement of the Gospel and Learning in Ireland."¹⁶ By this Act the "Farm of Ardrackan with the Parsonage of Trim belonging to the Bishoprick of Meath" were vested in Henry Ireton, President of Munster, Colonel Henry Cromwell, Doctor Henry Jones and others to hold in trust "for the maintenance of the College now in or near the City of Dublin called Trinity College . . ." This Act in reciting the former proprietorship of Ardrackan, and the Parsonage of Trim, as residing in the Bishopric of Meath may be taken, in conjunction with Ussher's returns, as conclusive evidence for the position as to ownership in A.D. 1640.

Pertinent to the Civil Survey returns, over the parish of Ardraccan, is a letter¹⁷ dated from Whitehall, November 9, 1661 from Charles II., to Dr. Henry Jones who had been advanced to the See of Meath in that year.¹⁸ It makes clear the restoration of Ardraccan, and the Parsonage of Trim, to the Bishopric of Meath, and provides VIII., permitting the alienation of this Manor also allowed the alienation of the Manors of "Scurlokiston, Newtown, Killeane and of Clonard, co. Meath and all his (the Bishop's) lands in those parishes." This Fiant specifies the lands comprising the Manor of Ardcath.

Lands returned in lay proprietorship, as at the year 1640, by the present text are shown by Restoration documents, to be presently specified, as being lands within the Temporalities of the Meath bishopric. In this connection it may first be pointed out that the Act of Settlement¹⁹ contained a special provision as to lands of which ecclesiastical persons had been dispossessed by "the fury and violence of the late times." To the lands "of which they were actually seized, or by themselves or their tenants possessed, in the year 1641" such ecclesiastical persons were forthwith to be restored.²⁰ In pursuance of a further clause²¹ in the Act of Settlement, it may be explained Books were directed to be compiled from, inter alia, the Surveys "of the late pretended powers"—the Civil Survey and the Down Survey, expressing the names of the proprietors in A.D. 1640, the townlands, quarters or other denominations, the persons to whom these were assigned and the admeasurements of the forfeited lands. The accumulation of all these particulars in scheduled form, barony by barony, furnished the valuable information available in the Books of Survey and Distribution. In these, Church lands are invariably indicated by a symbol in the first column—a cross surmounting the letter B, amplified in the next column by either the statement "Bishops lands" or, as in the present context, the title of the owner—the Bishop of Meath. Three distinct volumes of Books of S. and D. for Meath, it may be added, are located in the Quit Rent Office.²² The volume used for the official purposes of that Office specifies, in the column reserved for Act of Settlement grantees, the name of the Bishop of Meath as owner of certain lands in the parishes of Killian and Clonard, barony of Moyfenragh. For these same lands the other two volumes of Books of S. & D. record a decree of the 22nd June, 1663, in favour of Geo. Fitzgerald. He was presumably the son of Sir Luke Fitzgerald returned as the proprietor of these lands by the present text of the Civil Survey. By way of guidance the lands in question, as they are specified in the official volume of the Book of S. & D., may here be set out: Evnan [Inan]—Parish of Killian; Ballynabarny, Toughlant [Towlaght], Terroughan (part) [Ticroghan] Ardnemullanie and Killvarden—Parish of Clonard.

According to Ussher's account²³ of the Temporalities of the Diocese long leases had been granted by bishops of Meath in respect of the lands in the Parish of Clonard, with the exception of "Terroughan"—which denomination is not specified by Ussher, either to predecessors of Sir Luke Fitzgerald or to other parties whose interests he had acquired. The dates and terms of such leases,²⁴ given by Ussher, indicate that they were in being for the period of the Civil Survey and had, in fact, a considerable time to run in A.D. 1663. By way of explanation of the Decree, recorded by the two sets of Books of S. & D, as having been granted to Geo. Fitzgerald for the foregoing lands and apparently set aside in favour of the Bishop of Meath, it may be said that he was adjudged "innocent" on the 22nd June 1663 by the Commissioners of Claims. (Cal. of State Papers, I. 1663-65—p. 143).

With regard to Terroughan [Ticroghan] this denomination's admeasurement was 763 plantation acres according to the official Book of S. & D. In the column, of the same volume, for the proprietors under the Act of Settlement three names appear: Sir Theophilus Jones, George Fitzgerald—without the symbol indicating an Act of Settlement grant or decree, and the Bishop of Meath, the proportion of the last named being indicated as 275 acres. Though the Act of Settlement grant²⁵ to Sir Theophilus Jones—a brother of the bishop, passed to him the entire 763 acres, he received according to the Book of S. & D. only 488 acres. This with the area given to the Bishop exhausted the denomination. Though Ussher's return does not specify "Terroughan" as one of the Temporalities, yet if the boundaries, for this denomination, set down by the Civil Survey text—there rendered "Techraghan" be examined with a modern 6-in. map of Co. Meath (O.S. 46 & 47) it will be found that other lands were included in this denomination, namely, Annagh and Moydrum. These lands which were, no doubt, regarded as subdenominations of "Terroughan" or "Techraghan" will be found in Ussher's account as having been leased to the ancestors of Sir Luke Fitzgerald by former bishops of Meath. As to Ticroghan proper an Inquisition taken at Trim, 17 October, 1625,²⁶ should be consulted.

Attention may also be directed to a note in one of the Quit Rent Office Books of S. & D. relating to the lands of Killian and Ballinah, Parish of Killian, Barony of Moyfenragh, returned at p. 185 of the present volume as being in the ownership of Sir Dudley Loftus: "Held in fee from the Bishop of Meath—which was surrendered 23 April, 1697 and a Lease of 60 years taken out." An Elizabethan Fiant,²⁷ dated 27 November, A.D. 1598, should be referred to for the origin of the Loftus title.

In examining the Meath Books of S. & D. in conjunction with the Civil Survey—notes have been given throughout the latter text where Church lands are indicated by the former, care should be taken to distinguish between lands shown as restored or granted to the Bishop of Meath, in right of his See, and lands granted to him in his "natural capacity." In the latter qualification Dr. Henry Jones was also granted, at the Restoration, certain lands in county Meath. For such lands the Act of Settlement provided special terms in so far as it directed that they were to be held by Dr. Henry Jones "and his heirs" subject to "the like rents, tenures and payments as any adventurer." To facilitate students in identifying Church lands in the Civil Survey text, Ussher's account of the Temporalities, within the county of Meath, as printed by Elrington, is here given in full.²⁸

Cogan in his History of the Diocese points out²⁹ that it had neither dean nor chapter. "The highest dignitary after the bishop, was the Archdeacon of Meath to whose office the parish of St. Columbkil, Kells, was usually annexed." From authorities specified, Cogan records the sources of the income of the Archdeaconry; it is noted that amongst the lands there listed those of "Carlstown" would appear to have been rendered in the Civil Survey under the name of "Cakestown" (p. 314).

The lands of the Archbishop of Armagh come, as already indicated, within three baronies of the present text—Duleek, Lune, and Morgallion. For the first barony the text evidences ownership in respect only of a small property in the town of Duleek.³⁰ As to this, Reeves in the course of a paper³¹ on "The Primacy of Ireland" states: "St. Patrick's Church of Duleek, in the county and diocese of Meath, and some tenements there are on record as held under the See of Armagh since the 14th. century. Judging from the name, antiquity of the place and insignificance of the holding, we are justified in supposing that this is an extremely ancient appendage of the see." It would appear from Cogan,³² however, that the Archbishop of Armagh was the proprietor of more extensive lands in the barony of Duleek than is shown by the Civil Survey. He cites an Inquisition taken at Slane on the 22 August, 12th year Jas. I, according to which the Archbishop of Armagh was then seized "in right of the Church and See of Armagh," of the Manor of Kilmoone, the right of patronage and presentation of the rectory of Kilmoone, and of the rectory of Athboy. This is confirmed by the Meath Book of Survey & Distribution which evidences a decree in favour of the Archbishop of Armagh, given at the Restoration, in respect of part of the lands of Kilmoon, as well as all the remaining lands forming the parish of that name, and including the lands of "Primattstown." It must be assumed, therefore, that the lay proprietors returned by the Civil Survey, over the parish of Kilmoone, at pages 41 & 42 of this volume, held the lands there specified as lessees, or fee farm grantees, of the Archbishop of Armagh.

Bearing on the antiquity of the claims of the See of Armagh to Meath lands the concluding passage of the Inquisition already quoted, printed by Cogan, may here be given: "The said Archbishop was also seized in right of the said Church and See of Armagh of divers ancient customs, royalties, liberties, etc., heretofore granted unto the Archbishop of Armagh and his successors for ever by King Edward IV." At the parish of Kilmoon, it may be added, Cogan instances from the Annals,³³ under the year A.D. 809, the name of the Abbot of Kilmoon who was called

B^p of Meathe A^o primo Edward 6th to Thomas St. Laurence als. Howth for iiij^xix^enⁿ yeares he paying thereout yearly iij^l markes Ir. that is xxx^s ster. The Rectorie of TRYME in the Countie of Meath lately annexed by his Ma^{tie} to the B^prick w^{ch} is worth Communibus annis (the vicar's allowance being deducted) cc ster. A good parcel of the Tithes of this Rectorie was leased by Mr. Draper (late B^p of Killmore and parson of Tryme) for the vse of his wife who is now tured Recusant. Another portion in the towne of Tryme was demised by the said B^p Draper to Nicholas Locke for the yearly rent of xxvj^s Ir. or xx^s ster. . . the "Sergeant of Bregh from Patrick, i.e., the collector of St. Patrick's tribute in Meath for the Archbishop of Armagh."

The Civil Survey for the Parish and town of Trim has also to be read in the knowledge of the interests, not there disclosed, of the Archbishop of Armagh and the Bishop of Meath in lands returned by the text in lay proprietorship. These interests were disclosed by Reeves in his paper on the history of the Primacy³⁴: "The church of Trim³⁵ was founded by St. Patrick twenty-five years before Armagh and was named after him." From the Book of Armagh we learn that in early times it was connected with the metropolitan church, and through successive ages we find traces of the connexion existing even to the present day. The Anglo-Norman castle, which was erected here soon after the Invasion was built upon the Primate's land, and to him as chief proprietor, an annual rent was paid by the Lords of Meath; and when by reason of minority, the earldom of Ulster was in the guardianship of and afterwards by defect of male issue merged in the crown, we find at various dates from 1360 down, the annual sum of £8 : 16 : 7½d. paid by the Exchequer to the Archbishop of Armagh for the site of the castle, town and bridge of Trim. For some reason not recorded this rent has ceased to be paid, but the Bishop of Meath receives £3 : 15s. : 0 a year from the Treasury for the manor of Trim, while the Primate in right of his See is seized of certain tenements on the north side of the Church of St. Patrick of Trim, and three acres of land in Crowpark adjoining the town."

The parish of Trim falls within three baronies of the present text: Deece (p. 140), Moyfenragh (p. 167) and Navan (p. 248). Within the barony of Moyfenragh, at the denomination of "Trym one plowland" the textual "Observations" note the existence on the premises of a "Strong Castle Garrisoned a Town Hall a Bridge Many stone houses &c (p. 169). Sir Arthur Loftus is returned as the owner of the denomination. At page 249, within the barony of Navan, appears the text for Trim town.

In grants by the Crown of the Manor of Trim particular clauses protected the rights of ecclesiastical persons. For example the grant, for the term of his life, to Thomas Earl of Desmond, 25th August 4 Ed., IV.,³⁶ of this, and five other Meath manors³⁷ provided that it was not to be "prejudicial to the Archbishop of Armagh, nor to his Church, nor to the Bishop of Meath, nor to his successors, nor to the Abbot of Trim, nor to any of them." Likewise, a lease,³⁸ dated 18 March 1558, to Laurence Hamond of, with other premises, the Manor of Trim, exempted the lessee from payment of the rent due to the Bishop of Meath. In this, as in later leases, of the Manor of Trim, the castle was expressly excepted. This exclusion in definite terms was not, however, a condition or provision in the grant of the Manor to Adam Loftus dated 23 December, 22, Jas. I.³⁹ This patent passed to him, without any reservation of the rights of ecclesiastical persons, "the whole circuit and precinct of the manor of Trim, with the stone wall surrounding it, containing 3 acres . . . and all the demesne lands of the Manor of Trim."

Reeves does not state the date of the last payment of the rent of £8 : 16 : 7½ for the site of the castle, bridge and town of Trim, by the Crown to the Archbishop of Armagh. It is not distinctively returned in the First Report of the Commission on Ecclesiastical Revenue & Patronage, published in 1833. Whether it ceased with the use of the castle for military purposes, or with the Crown's severance of its interest in the site of the castle, as indicated by the Loftus grant, remains for investigation. In this last connection it will be noted from Butler's well-known History of Trim Castle, that in 1667, "the castle and manor of Trim," with other premises, were sold by Adam Loftus of Rathfarnham Co. Dublin, for the sum of £7,200.⁴⁰

As to the other rent paid by the Crown to the Bishop of Meath, in respect of the Manor of Trim, the returns printed in the Established Church (Ireland) Commission Report, 1868, show, within the section reserved for the revenues of the Diocese of Meath, the then receipt of a "Rent paid by the Crown for the Manor of Trim—£2 : 18 : 0." Since the site of the Castle of Trim was part of the Manor of that name, it is conceivable that the Treasury deemed the payment of one rent as adequate recognition of ecclesiastical claims.

As to the Archbishop of Armagh's proprietorship of "three acres" in the lands of Crowpark, there is no corresponding denomination returned by the Civil Survey text. Townlands of this name, however, appear on the 6-in. O.S. Map, 36 of Meath. They are located immediately north-west of Trim and there rendered as "Crowpatrick 1st Division" and "Crowpatrick 2nd Division"—an obviously modern arrangement. The Down Survey Trim parish map⁴¹ describes the area within which these divisions reside as "the Commons of Trim." The boundaries provided by the Civil Survey text for the "town & lands of Trim" are confirmatory of this. A Crown grant⁴² to the Archbishop of Armagh, 25th Feb. 12 Jas. I., following a surrender of previous patents, simply specifies "a tenement and 3 acres in or near Trim."

The payment of specific rents, it may be added, to the Archbishop of Armagh, the Bishop of Meath, the Archdeacon of Meath, and the Archdeacon of Kells in respect of other lands, within the present text, was the condition of a Crown grant of the year 1541.⁴³

The separate returns of the Archbishop of Armagh's lands, within the parish of Nobber, barony of Morgallion (p. 335) should likewise be read in conjunction with some historical studies over that area. "The Boundaries of some Irish Dioceses" is the title of a paper contributed to the Irish Theological Quarterly (July, 1909) by the Rev. Thomas Gogarty, C.M. A mandate of Henry III., dated at St. Sever, May, 1243, relative to the manor of Nobber is here summarised: "It details how Albert, Archbishop of Armagh had lately come to the King in Gascony, demanding in right of his Church, restitution of Drogheda, Louth & other vills, and of the Manor of Nobber (in Meath) this last having belonged to Hugh de Lacy. Fitzgerald the Justiciary was commanded to take with him the Treasurer of Ireland and the Seneschal of Meath & inquire into the archiepiscopal rights which the king neither will or ought to subtract therefrom." The result of the enquiry, adds Father Gogarty, appears to have been altogether favourable to the Archbishop. Reeves, in his historical note on the Primacy, explains that: "The Church of Coleraine was among the earliest & most famous of St. Patrick's foundations, & in consideration of this the Abbey and its lands were at an early date connected with the Church of Armagh. But soon after the English invasion, Coleraine becoming an important frontier station of the English, Hugh de Lacy, Earl of Ulster, was desirous to obtain these lands, and exchanged the Manor of Nobber, in the county of Meath for them . . . and the exchange was confirmed in 1301 by Nicholas Mac Molisa a succeeding Primate."

It is not clear, however, whether the lands returned by the present text "belonging to the See of Armagh" within the Parish of Nobber, constituted in whole, or in part, the lands forming the Manor of Nobber at the date of the exchange just described. Amongst the lands included in the separate returns are those of "Gillianstowne" and "Carrick Lick." Both these denominations are separately & distinctively specified⁴⁴ in a Crown grant⁴⁵ to the Archbishop of Armagh, dated 25th. Feb. 12, Jas. I., which also passed to him the "Manor of Nobber." It is also observed that an inquisition⁴⁶ of 25 Sept' 1635 recites that one Tho' Bathe of Drogheda held part of the lands of Knightston from the Archbishop of Armagh "as of his Manor of Nobber." These lands are apparently those returned by the present text (p. 327) in the proprietorship of Peter Bath, within the parish of Killsany, Morgallion barony. For other lands held of the Manor of Nobber, the Inquisitions temp Jac. I., should be consulted.

Towards the identification of lands returned in the general text for the parish of Nobber (p. 332-335), a volume of Meath parish and barony Down Survey maps, located in the Quit Rent Office, will be found helpful. There is, in this collection, for example, a separate map for the area rendered by the text (p. 334) as the "Four Poles of Ardmagh." These are described by the map as consisting of the denominations of Ardmagh, Scraboy, Corskelty and Ballydouchy. Adapting the boundaries to the 6-in. Ordnance Map, 59 of Meath, the foregoing Four Poles would now appear to be represented by the townland of Ardmaghbreague. This townland, for Ordnance Survey boundary purposes, was transferred, subsequent to 1831, from the barony of Morgallion to the barony of Kells. Likewise the area described by the present text as the "Eight poles of Tarmon" (p. 335) can be identified from the Down Survey barony map. It is interesting to note that these "Tarmon" lands returned in lay proprietorship, are bounded north and south with the lands of Drumgill⁴⁷ and "Carrick Lick" separately returned by the present text as "belonging to the See of Armagh."

Attention may be directed to a number of Crown documents—grants of land & royal letters, relative to the Dioceses of Armagh and Meath, printed as an Appendix to the Report of the Established Church (Ireland) Commission (1868). A reference will there be found (p. 181) to the disappearance of the Meath Diocesan Records, and the institution of an enquiry for their recovery by order of the King under date 12 Octr.,

⁴⁷ This townland would appear to be rendered "Argill" by the present text (p. 335).

12, James I. Documents prior to the Anglo-Norman invasion, and copied into the Book of Kells, have been summarised by Cogan⁴⁸ in his History of the Dioceses of Meath. One charter, assigned to the early years of the eleventh century "certifies a grant of Kildalkey 'with its territory & lands to God and to Columbkille for ever' by Conor O'Melaghlin King of Meath." The parish of Kildalkey, barony of Lune, is returned at p. 208 of the present text. A most extensive collection of papers, mainly for the 17th century, relating to the church lands of the Meath diocese, will be found described in the Catalogue of the Public Library, Armagh, compiled by Mr. James Dean, Deputy Librarian.

Amongst the Quit Rent Office records is a MS. return for the "Tithes of the Baronies of Meath," made in A.D. 1655. Examination having led to the conclusion that it was part of the original Civil Survey of Meath, it has been printed as an Appendix to this volume. A note of explanation is, therefore, called for. This document belonged to the Headfort Collection of Books and Papers which as Mr. M. J. McEnery records in a Note to this volume was acquired by the Commissioners of Woods and Forests, London, and subsequently transferred to the Quit Rent Office. In the Appendix to the 8th Report of the Irish Record Commission—specifying the contents of that collection, it is returned as the last item of a list captioned "Miscellaneous Maps,"—and described as "A Roll of Twelve sheets—Endorsed—Tythes in the co. Meath in Baronies." It was not, obviously, regarded by the Record Commissioners as part of the Civil Survey, which they described distinctively elsewhere in the same Appendix; nor did it receive particular classification subsequent to its acquisition by the Office of Woods or the Quit Rent Office. The preparation for publication of the Meath Civil Survey afforded an opportunity, however, for the closer examination of this document whose features and the reasons for regarding it as part of the original Civil Survey may here be given.

Unbound, and written in a bold seventeenth century hand, on both sides of large sheets of paper (17 x 22),—each of which is captioned by the name of a barony, a prepatory statement at the first two baronies, indicates the subject of the succeeding text: "A Return of what Tythes & Gleebelands did belong to any Viccaridge, Rectory, Appropriation, or Impropriation in every parish within the sayd Barony . . . what the Vallews and whoe were the Possessors thereof in the year 1640 as also whoe the present Possessors are." This is abbreviated for the remaining baronies to: "The Tythes in the Barony of Moyfenrah" or as the case may be. Each of these twelve distinct baronial returns, representing the entire county Meath, concludes with the following attestation subscribed by what would appear to be the original signatures of "Thos. Tresham" and "Sil. Stirrop": "An Accompt of all the Tythes of the Barony of (Duleek) great and small made and returned the 19 April, 1655."

Though the Instructions to the Civil Survey Commissioners required particulars to be furnished of "tithes or impropriations" such information is not returned by the MS. volumes constituting the recognised Meath Civil Survey text. It may be recalled that in the course of the general text for Tipperary county, an account of the Tithes of each parish is given, the details appearing at each parochial introduction. It has also to be recalled that distinct returns were required for Church lands. Though these were furnished for Meath county, and have already been noted, a list of Church lands, uncertified, accompanied the Meath Tithe Returns. The Church lands included in this list are the same as those specified in the certified separate returns printed with this volume. It has also to be observed that the names of the signatories to these Tithe Returns are those of two of the four Civil Survey Commissioners who attested the Meath Civil Survey text. Finally, the date of the Tithe Returns—19 April, 1655, is only some three weeks later than that of the Meath Civil Survey text—23 March, 1654[5].

Whatever may have been the circumstances of the compilation of this Tithe section in its present form—a separate return may have been interpreted from the Instructions, or there may have been delay in obtaining the particulars, the fact remains that it furnishes in the manner prescribed by those Instructions, the information required by the Government of the day. This fact when considered in conjunction with the date of the document, and the names of its signatories, strongly induced the view that the Tithe specification was part of the original Civil Survey of Meath. In these circumstances the Irish Manuscripts Commission decided that it should be published and included with the present volume.

As already indicated this document is in a loose condition requiring careful handling. For the most part it can be read without great difficulty, the instances of illegibility being mainly confined to the captions, and names of parishes, at the top or end of a page. These are indicated by square brackets within which missing letters—suggested by the context, have been inserted. To facilitate reference special Indexes have been prepared of Persons and Places referred to in the text. These are printed in a separate Appendix.

The present text sets down the facts for the area known as the county of Meath. It specifies for each parish the title under which the "possessorship" of the Tithes was claimed, that is either (1) by Letters Patent from the Crown, by inheritance, lease or purchase, or (2) by virtue of ecclesiastical appointments within the patronage of (a) the Bishop of Meath—in right of his Bishopric, (b) the Archbishop of Armagh and (c) of certain lay patrons.

Attention may, perhaps, here be directed to sources bearing on the text or explanatory of its features. The lay proprietorship of Tithes so extensively recorded by the returns, was a consequence of the suppression of Religious Houses: "At the period of the Reformation one-half of the entire tithes of Ireland had passed into the hands of monasteries of which no fewer than 382. were suppressed throughout Ireland by King Henry VIII., subsequent to the year 1537."⁴⁹ The Acts,⁵⁰ it may be added, directing the dissolution vested the Tithes and other possessions of Religious Houses in the Crown in as ample a manner as they were held by such Religious Houses. By the same Acts the Crown was enabled to dispose of these acquired possessions by Letters Patent. As a result "laymen though incapable of performing ecclesiastical duties . . . were suddenly put in possession of ecclesiastical estates and invested with titles to tithes."⁵¹ The frequent reference throughout the text to "Letters Patent" is thus explained. From the granting away by the Crown of the Tithes belonging to Religious Houses sprang those "Impropriations" and "Impropriate Rectories," set out in the text, and so denominated, according to Spelman, quoted by Erck,⁵² "as being improperly in the hands of laymen . . ." The report of Sir

Henry Sydney, in 1576, to Elizabeth⁵³ should be consulted for the position over the diocese of Meath: "In the diocese of Meath are 224 parish churches of which number 105 are impropriated to sundry possessions now of your Highness, and all leased out for years or in fee-farm to several farmers and great gain reaped out of them above the rent which your Majesty receiveth . . ."

As to the "possession" of Tithes by ecclesiastical persons, under the patronage of either ecclesiastical dignitaries or laymen specified in the text, it may be pointed out that "while the Crown reserved exclusively in its own hands the right of presenting to Archbishopal & Episcopal Sees it delegated, as regards other ecclesiastical benefices its power not only to Bishops, Universities and Corporations but even to Lay Persons many of whom independently of any grant from the Crown had the power of acquiring this right to themselves by founding churches & endowing them with Lands and Tithes, by which means they constantly became the Patrons of those Churches."⁵⁴ While the Civil Survey Tithe Return sets out, as already indicated, the source of title of the owners of Tithes, it does not specify the origin of title of the various patrons whose names are set down. In some instances this can be determined from other sources. A number of documents, for example, are printed by Cogan, in his History of the Diocese,⁵⁵ relative to the patronage of the Parish of Kilskyre, Moyfenragh barony, and of which the present text returns the patron as the Earl of Fingal.⁵⁶ In the connection of sources, valuable reports of Ecclesiastical Law cases collected by Erck,⁵⁷ and bearing directly on this question, should be consulted. Here the title of Lord Dunsany,⁵⁸—whose patronage is also recorded in the present text, by grant from the Crown to the patronage of the parishes of Kentstown (Duleek barony) and Oldcastle (Fore barony) is discussed and recorded. Attention may likewise be directed to Section 158 of the Act of Explanation (17 & 18 Chas. 2) which qualified the restoration of lands to "innocent papists" by providing that nothing in that Act, or in the Act of Settlement should give or restore "to any Irish papist any advowsons or right of patronage of any ecclesiastical benefice," but that such rights should vest thenceforth in the King.

The grants, by the Crown, of Tithes were made, as a rule, subject to the payment of Crown rents, and in this relation a collection of MS. Crown Rentals, located in the Quit Rent Office, should be consulted in tracing the disposition of the possessions of Religious Houses. As throwing particular light on the Tithe Return, Dopping's "Enlarged Account" of the Diocese of Meath, preserved in Marsh's Library, calls for special notice. At p. 35 under Z 3. 1. 4(1) it is described in the Library Catalogue of MSS.; "Antony Dopping, Bishop of Meath, his enlarged Account of the State and Revenues of the Bishopric of Meath and Clonmacnoise; as extracted out of his MSS. by John Stearne in 1697 (pp. 1-106)." The Volume containing this MS. also includes Ussher's Visitation of the Diocese, 1622, and Dopping's similar Visitation of 1693—all of importance to workers on the Civil Survey text. It is to the "Enlarged Account" that attention is here directed. The entries on the opening page indicate the historical scope of the text in so far as they specify the sources from which the Account was compiled: Inquisitions in the Office of the Remembrancer; records in the office of the Auditor-General; Colgan's Acta Sanctorum, etc. From such sources the "Enlarged Account," written in Latin, presents in double columns a statement of facts concerning each rectory in the Meath diocese. Opposite the first column descriptive of the names of the rectory, patron and rector the valuable information is furnished of the name of the Religious House to which the rectory belonged prior to the Religious Revolution, amplified by reference to the relative inquisition. These particulars are supplemented by details of items such as Procurator Fees and First Fruits. Read in conjunction with the text of the Tithe Returns, where each rectory is parochially equated, the parishes and areas of Meath county within the particular ecclesiastical administration of different Religious Houses, prior to their dissolution, may easily be perceived.⁵⁹

For the history of the Abbeys of Meath, Cogan's volumes on the Diocese should be consulted.⁶⁰ And here, likewise, attention may be called to the mediæval history of certain parishes, within the present text, written by Rev. Paul Walsh and published in "Leaves of History."⁶¹ A general history of Tithes by D'Alton should also be referred to. He points out that the number of Irish parishes governed by the principles of lay impropriation "in right of the dissolution of the monasteries" had been underrated.⁶² Though mainly confined to a continuation, from 1867, of Cogan's volumes, the Parish Histories of the Diocese by Rev. John Brady, will be found to contain valuable material for much earlier periods.⁶³

Each of the twelve baronies of the main text is described as located within the "County of Eastmeath." These twelve baronies correspond in name to the twelve baronies denominated as constituting the "county of Meath" created by the Act of Henry VIII (A.D. 1542).⁶⁴ By the same Act the baronies which were to constitute the "County of Westmeath" were, likewise, individually specified.⁶⁵ The description "Eastmeath" is, no doubt, derived from the division thus made of the former "shire of Meath." Though there is a correspondence in name between the baronies specified by the Act of Henry VIII., as constituting Meath county, and those set down in the Civil Survey text, it would appear that Meath county at a date subsequent to its formation as such included territory well without the boundaries of the baronies recorded by the Civil Survey. A collection of numerous tracings of Elizabethan maps—of which a list is here given,⁶⁶ attached to Vol. I of the Meath Extracts (Ordnance Survey series), located in the Royal Irish Academy, should be examined in this connection. In one instance the territory distinctively mapped is described as "The Brene—Part of Meath." The adjoining territories shown as boundaries are—on the north, "Farmanagh—McGuier"; on the south—"Part of the barony of Slane"; on the east—"the county of Monaghan" and, on the west—"part of province of Connaght." Applied to a modern map the boundaries so described would be capable of including—for "The Brene," the counties of Leitrim and Cavan. These counties prior to their formation as such by Perrott in 1584 represented the territory of Breffny—West Breffny becoming Leitrim, and East Breffny Cavan county. Before directing attention to the bearing of the Civil Survey on this matter it may, perhaps, be stated here that one Theobald de Verdon, constable of Ireland, A.D. 1310, was styled, as pointed out by Father Denis Murphy, S.J., LL.D.,⁶⁷ "Lord of Brenny." In his "Gleanings from Irish History" (p. 200) Professor W. F. T. Butler states that Breffny was included in de Lacy's grant, furnishing references to State Papers of the 16th and 17th centuries in which claims were made to Cavan county and to lands in Leitrim by Lord Gormanston and others. The early history of this region, it may be added, is described in "Notes on the history of Breifne" by M. Ó Duigeannáin, M.A. Mr. Ó Duigeannáin's studies in the *Journal of the R.S.A.*⁶⁸ are accompanied by a map showing the Breifne Region circa 700 A.D., with modern county and barony boundaries.

The present text evidences that certain lands described as situated in Cavan parishes "belonged" to baronies in the county Meath. To the specific instances attention may at once be directed. The barony of Slane, at the opening page of its text (p. 341) is described as containing, in addition to the parishes set out: "Ye 10 poles of Ralloghbane in ye county of Cavan." This is expanded by the explanatory statement at a later stage of the text (p. 371): "The Ten Poles of land following are belonging to the Barony of Slane yet they do lie in the Parish of Iniskeene in the county of Cavan except the last two which are in the Parish of Nobber & Barony of Moyhergalline." Again within the text for the barony of Kells it is recorded that certain poles "Lye in the Parish of Moybolog in the county of Cavan and yett are of the barony of Kells." It is therefore to be enquired whether the Cavan lands set out by the text represented all the lands "belonging" to Meath baronies, or whether such lands were merely the expression of boundary arrangements at the date of the formation of Cavan county. That the latter view would be the more likely explanation is induced by reference to the proprietary facts of the adjoining areas. The present text records, for example, the Lord of Slane as the owner of the "Poles of Ralloghbane" belonging to Slane barony; he is also returned by the Cavan Book of S. & D. as the owner of numerous lands in the adjoining Cavan barony of Clankee. Furthermore, an abstract of what is believed to be the Civil Survey of Cavan, to be more fully referred to presently, evidences that over at least five baronies of Cavan county the names of proprietors of land in A.D. 1640 were similar to those who figure prominently in the same capacity in the present text. This is confirmed by the Cavan Book of S. & D. Two such names were those of the Earl of Fingal and Lord Dun-sany. The Earl of Westmeath was a proprietor within three Cavan baronies. Attention may also be directed to (1) the specification of the Parish of Enniskeen, within the Tithe Return where it is emphasised that the Bishop of Meath collected the Tithes of the Cavan section as well as of that in co. Meath and (2) that while the plowland is the land measure employed for almost the entire Meath text, the poll or pole, the usual Cavan measure, describes the contents of certain lands in the barony of Morgallion as well as of those already indicated in the baronies of Slane and Kells.

It is to be inferred, therefore, that prior to the formation of Cavan county, lands in Breffny belonged to specific Meath baronies and that, on the formation of such county, or subsequent thereto, those returned by the present text were merely expressive of the new boundary delimitations of both Meath and Cavan. While the extents of ancient territories, whose names are preserved in Meath baronial nomenclature, have been estimated, as in the instance of Morgallion,⁶⁹ the limits of the baronies declared by the Act of Henry VIII., to form Meath county, would appear to await definition.

With the exception of the division for administrative purposes, in the 18th century, of certain baronies,⁷⁰ into the classifications of "Upper" and "Lower," and the transfer of some parishes and lands from one barony to another, subsequent to the introduction of the Ordnance Survey—to which attention has been directed in due place, the present text may be said to correspond with the County Meath of modern times. It likewise "roughly corresponds"—excluding adjoining districts of Dublin & Louth, with the territory of Bregha of the ancient Kingdom of Meath.⁷¹ In this historic connection the regional and local areas set forth by the text come within the range of the specialised studies by distinguished historical investigators.⁷² Some topographical treatises by Rev. Paul Walsh, identifying places "both within & outside Meath's ancient limits" may be particularised here.⁷³ A further agreement with the area of the text would be the ancient diocese of Duleek which, according to Cogan, was "co-extensive with Eastmeath" (Vol. I., p. 69).

Falling within the grant of the principality of Meath in 1172 to Hugh de Lacy who "gave much thereof to lords and gentlemen to houlde of him,"⁷⁴ and forming part of the county of Meath ascribed to King John,⁷⁵ a wide measure of correspondence may also be found in the area surveyed by the present text with the Liberty of Trim—one of the two moieties into which the Lordship of Meath had been divided A.D. 1252,⁷⁶ This "Liberty of Trim" together with the "land of Theobald de Verdon" and all the "lands of the Crosses" comprised the county of Meath as formed by the Statute XXV, Edward I. The sub-division of this county, presumably "the shire of Meath" referred to in the Act of 1542, into the counties of Meath and Westmeath has already been noticed. For the extent of the "lands of the Crosses," or Church lands, within the baronies of the same name as those specified by the present text, as for the extent of the baronies themselves in the prevailing land measures, the collection of MSS. of Christopher Cusack, High Sheriff of Meath A.D. 1511 should be consulted. They are located in Trinity College and entered at pages 99 and 132 of the Library Catalogue of MSS. An excerpt has been published in Morrin's Cal. of Patent Rolls, Eliz., Vol. II., p. 233. Many documents relating to Meath will be found in the collection known as the "Miscellanea of the Chancery" London. A catalogue has been printed by Professor James Hogan in Analecta Hibernica, Vol. I., p. 179. They range in date from the reign of Henry III to that of Henry VIII. Particular attention may also be called to the very interesting series of documents printed in the Calendar of the Gormanston Register (Ed. by Mills and McEnery). Besides the title deeds of the Preston family many charters—Henry II—Henry III, including that to Hugh de Lacy, are printed here, constituting an indispensable source for the history of the Meath palatinate.

For the urban and territorial area comprised in the description the "County of Drogheda"⁷⁷ representing the amalgamation of two corporations, A.D. 1412, including the town of Drogheda and the parish of St. Mary's, on the Meath side, south of the Boyne, the Civil Survey is not, unhappily, available. A detailed description of the town is, however, forthcoming in a closely contemporaneous record—the "Drogheda Rent Roll" located in the Quit Rent Office. This MS. volume in recording the names of the persons to whom the town and liberties had been granted, at the Restoration, distinctively describes each house, the street in which it was located, the particular name, if any, by which it was known, the name of the then—and frequently that of the former, occupier. On the Down Survey map for the barony of Duleek, it may be added, the extent of the Liberties, on the Meath side, is indicated by a blank space, with the description, surmounted by a pictorial representation of the town, "Drogheda Liberties." From the surrounding boundaries the liberties would appear to have included the lands specified in a foot-note at the opening page of the barony of Duleek (p. 1). In his History of Drogheda, D'Alton publishes "A plott of the Towne & also of part of the land within the county of the Town." This map is dated 1657 and bears the name "Robert Newcomen." Particular attention may be called to the "Council Book of the Corporation of Drogheda"—1649 to 1734, edited by Rev. T. Gogarty, C.M. (Drogheda Independent Co. Ltd., 1915). Here, as the Editor states, will be found "detailed information concerning every building & object of interest in the town—the history of the walls & gates & bridge & some of the Churches." A survey, dated 6 March, 1653, of lands belonging to the Corporation, on the Meath side, is an interesting feature of this volume.

Finally, reference should be made to the report of Mr. Chas. McNeill on the collection, in private keeping, of Down Survey maps—barony & parish, for many counties, including that of Meath. It is printed at page 419, Analecta Hibernica No. 8 (March, 1938). Excerpts descriptive of Drogheda, Kells, & other places are printed by Mr. McNeill. A "valuation" of the latter town, it may be added, dated "18th Feb. in the 15th year of his Majesty's reign"—ascribed to Chas. II., is located in the Quit Rent Office.

⁷⁷ See abstracts of charters to the corporations in the pub. Reports Municipal Corporations, Ireland, 1835.

Expression may again be given to the hope that the publication of these volumes will evoke inquiry as to the missing set of Civil Survey barony books. Certified copies, too, would be most valuable. It is believed that reposing amongst legal papers there must be many of these relating to particular baronies, parishes or lands. Indeed since the publication of Vol. I., certified copies of the Civil Survey for Kilkenny & for Callan & Inistiogue—these discovered by Dr. Edmund Curtis, have been made available through the courtesy of the Earl of Ossory. Likewise through the zeal of Professor James Hogan, the Civil Survey of the barony of Muskerry, Co. Cork, has been acquired and added to the Quit Rent Office collection. A recent examination of the Ordnance Survey papers in the Royal Irish Academy brought to light a document which is believed to be an abstract of the Civil Survey of Co. Cavan. This abstract consists of sixty-seven closely written pages (quarto) specifying barony by barony the names of the proprietors in 1640, the denomination of lands, their admeasurement in poles, and the valuations. Prefixed to it are some letters indicating the source from which the original was obtained, & expressing the opinion of Record Officials as to its origin & purpose. From these it appears that a MS. volume was sent in July, 1835, to Major Larcom at the Ordnance Survey Office, Dublin, by Mr. A. Stotherd who stated that he had obtained it from the agent of Mr. Southwell of Castle Hamilton, Killeshandra, Co. Cavan. At Larcom's request the MS. was examined by Mr. Fowler of the Record Office who obtained the opinion of Mr. Hardinge of the Vice-Treasurer's Office. Writing to Mr. Fowler, who had expressed the view that it was an original book & had not been copied from the Down Survey "as the names of the lands were more numerous," Mr. Hardinge said: "The book of the Co. Cavan herewith returned was not originally bound up in one volume. It was first made up in baronies, & so numbered. Six of these baronies are original & appear to have been an official compilation made up about the period of the distribution of the forfeited lands amongst Cromwell's soldiers in the year 1652-3 . . . The design of the whole was evidently to show the distribution of the forfeited lands . . . It is arranged in baronies & parishes, the waste lands in each parish being distinguished from the profitable lands. The value of each parish is prefixed." When the purpose of the Ordnance Survey had been served by an abstract—"for the sake of the Townland & Parish names," the volume was duly returned by Major Larcom. The collation of this abstract, with the Book of Survey & Distribution for Cavan, strongly induces the view that the volume from which it was made was the original Civil Survey for that county.

The foregoing facts are now made known in the hope that special inquiry will be made as to the present destination of this MS. book.

In the Royal Irish Academy collection of Ordnance Survey papers will also be found two volumes of "Extracts" from MSS. & printed sources bearing on the history & topography of Meath, and one volume of Letters in the well-known O'Donovan series.

judge any way able to informe them concerning the premisses to come before them, and examine the said persons, upon oath, for the better discovery of what they know in and about the said premisses. And it is further ordered, that in making returns of the said survey the said Henry Waddington, &c., doe observe and put in execution the instructions hereunto annexed ; and that before they doe act anything by vertue of this commission, they doe take the oath ensuing, viz. : " You shall faithfully promise and swear, in the presence of the great and mighty God, that you shall well and truly execute the power and trust to you committed, by vertue of this commission and instructions, according to the best of your skill and knowledge." And the said Henry Waddington and James Shane are to administer the said oath each unto other. And they, or any one or more of them, having so taken the said oath, are hereby authorized to administer the same unto the rest of the persons hereby appointed for the execution of this commission and instructions, as aforesaid

DATED AT DUBLIN, THE 2ND OF JUNE, 1654.

Instructions to be observed by Henry Wadington, James Shane, Henry Greenoway, and Sebastian Brigham, Esqrs., in the Holding and Keeping of Courts of Survey of the Honors, Baronies, Castles, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, in and by the annexed Commission given them in Charge to survey, and in the surveying of the same accordingly.

You are forthwith, upon receipt of your commission, to meet in some convenient place within the said county, to take the oath prescribed in your said commission, for the due execution of the trust thereby comitted unto you, and to consider in what barony or place you shall judge it most convenient to appoint the first court of survey to bee kept, in order to the prosecution of your said commission, and accordingly to appoint time and place for that end. And for the more effectual performance of the said service, you are authorized to adjourne from time to time, and from place to place, in such manner as you shall judge to bee most conducibile to the speedy and effectuall discharge of the said work. And in the first place you are to survey, according to the tenor of your commission and these instructions, the baronies of Clonlownan, Moycashell, Moygoish, Corkerry, Delvin, Ffarbill, territory of Birawny, and lands of Moydrum adjoyning thereunto, being the baronies that are fallen by lot to the souldiery within the said county.

You are with all convenient speed to enter into and upon all and every the honors, baronies, mannors, castles, messuages, and other the lands, tenements, and hereditaments whatsoever mentioned in your commission, lying within the said county of Westmeath. And by your oathes of good and lawfull men, and by all other lawfull wayes and meanes, you are to inquire and find out the premisses, and every of them, with their and every of their appurtenances. And you are to view and survey the same, or cause the same to be viewed and surveyed, so as the premisses and every of them may (either by your own view, or by the view and testimony of good and lawfull persons, upon oath) bee certainly, distinctly, and entirely known from other lands, by their respective qualities, quantities, or number of acres by estimation (according to one and twenty foot to the perch, and one hundred and sixty perches to the acre), also by their names, scituacion, parish, or place where the same doe lye, with their respective meets and bounds ; the bogs, woods, and barren mountains, belonging to the respective premisses, or any of them, being mentioned, and the quantity thereof estimated and distinguished from the profitable lands in the said survey. And for the better execution of your said commission, you are, as often as you see cause, to summon one or more juries, and to give them in charge to inquire and find out all and every the particulars of these instructions, and to cause such juries, when and as often as you shall judge it necessary, to view and tread the meets and bounds of the premisses, and to forme all such other matters and things as are perfectly inquirable in courts of survey, as you shall give the same in charge unto them.

You are, by the like waies and meanes, to inquire of and find out the true yearly value of the premisses, and of every of them, as the same were lett for, or worth to be lett, in the year 1640, or at any time before; and also what part of the premisses are chargeable with any pious and charitable use or uses; and also to inquire of and survey, or cause to bee surveyed, the buildings, houses, edifices, timber, woods, open quarries, or mines, upon the premisses,—and to make true and particular returns of the same in your bookes of survey.

You are to call before you all such persons as now are, or formely have been, stewards, bayliffs, reeves, or collectors of rents, issues, revenues, or profits of the premisses, or any part thereof; and likewise all such persons as now are, or formerly have been, tenants of the premisses, or any part thereof, and also such other persons as you conceive may best know the premisses, or any of them, or as many of the said persons as you can conveniently summon to appear before you, and to examine them upon oath concerning the meets and bounds of the premisses, and concerning the rents, issues, profits, valuations, royalties, perquisites of courts, tythes, or impropriations, rights, titles, and other emoluments unto the premisses, or any of them, belonging or appertaining, or held, or enjoyed with the same, as parte, parcell, or member thereof, or appendant to the same, together with their and every of their particular values, which you are distinctly to returne in your bookes of survey as aforesaid.

You are further strictly to inquire and examine as aforesaid what court-rolls rentalls, bookes of survey, books of accompts, or what other records, evidences, or writings touching every the premisses, or any part of them, any of the said persons have come to the knowledge of; and where and in whose custody the same do remayne; which said court-rolls, rentalls, bookes of accompt, or other records, evidences, and writings, you are to demand and receive into your custody.

In returning your survey of any honors, mannors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, belonging to the Crown, or to archbishops, bishops, deans, deans and chapters, or other officers belonging to that hierarchy, you are particularly to inquire, by your waies and meanes aforesaid, what leases are in being of any part of the said last-mentioned premisses, when the same did respectively commence, for what terme granted, to whom the same were so granted, what rents and other duties were reserved thereupon, who are the present tenants of such lands so granted, and in whose right they hold the same, and when and from whom such right is or hath been made over unto them, or unto the persons for or from whom they hold the same respectively.

In case you find variance in the evidence which shall be given, touching the extent or valuation of the premisses, or any part of them, or any other particular given in charge, and if the said variation or difference bee considerable, or if you conceive the evidence to differ from truth to the prejudice of the Commonwealth, or any other person, you are in those cases, as well by your own view as by such other good waies and meanes as you judge fitt, to informe yourselves of the truth in such particulars, and to certify as well the said evidence at large as your own judgment touching those particulars, with the reasons inducing you to vary from such evidence.

Where you shall find no possibility, by reason of the wastnes or depopulation of the country, to make so particular a survey as is directed, or to inform yourselves so exactly of the meets, bounds, or other certenties of the premisses, or any of them, as is before required, you are in such cases to use your best wayes and meanes you can for the discovery of all and every the particulars herein given you in charge, and to certify upon all such particulars the manner of your proceedings and the causes why you cannot returne the said survey of them according to the instructions given you.

And because it is required that the quantity or number of acres contained in the premisses, and in every part or parcell of them, should be distinctly and particularly admeasured, you are, therefore, out of the survey taken by you of the premisses, and every part of the same, to cause an abstract to bee drawn, containing the names of all and every such parcells of land as shall bee by you surveyed in every respective barony, according to the tenor of your commission, with their respective bounds and meets, and the parishes or places where the same do respectively lie, not mentioning the quantity or value of the same ; and the said abstract so drawn you are to deliver to such persons as shall be authorized and commissioned to admeasure the same. In which abstract you are to distinguish which of the said lands are forfeited lands, and also which lands are Crown lands, and which lands are lands lately belonging to any archbishop, bishop, dean, dean and chapter, or other officers of that hierarchy, to the end the same may be distinctly admeasured, and distinct plotts returned of the same.

And for the better assistance of the said persons who shall be appointed to admeasure the premisses, or any part of them, you are hereby authorized and required, by warrants under your hand, to appoint (out of the inhabitants of the said county), such and so many fitt persons as shall be judged necessary to attend the said surveyors in admeasuring of the premisses, or any parts thereof, for to show and tread out the meets and bounds of any of the said lands respectively ; and also to informe and make known, as often as there shall be occasion, the meets of the several baronies and parishes, and the course that the said meets and bounds doe runne.

And for the more full and better discovery of the interest of the Commonwealth in or out of lands in the said county, you are further authorized and appointed to inquire what other lands in any of the baronies aforesaid are claymed by any English or Protestants, how meared, scituate, and bounded, and in what parishes or places respectively the said lands doe lye, what number of acres such lands so claymed do respectively containe by estimation, according to the measure of 21 ffoot to the pole, and 160 poles to the acre ; what leases, annuities, rents or other profits are made off, or is issuing, or of right ought to issue out of the same to the Commonwealth, in right of any person or persons who have forfeited their interests in the same to the Commonwealth ; which you are likewise to return in your survey, therein setting down the particular yearly values of every such lease, annuity, rent, or cther profit.

Having finished the survey of every the said baronies within the said county, according to the aforementioned rules and instructions given you, you are to cause the same to bee fairly ingrossed in one or more bookes, setting down the survey of each barony by itself, and to return the same, attested under your hands, or the hands of any three or more of you, together with this commission and instructions, close sealed up, to the surveyor-generall, and a duplicate thereof, in like manner fairly ingrossed, attested, and sealed up, to the register for forfeited lands in Ireland,—at Dublin, together with all records, evidences, and writings which shall come to your hands concerning the premisses or any part of them. In the returne, transcription, or making up of which survey, or in any other thing relating to the premisses, you are further to observe such instructions as shall bee sent you by the said commissioners of the Commonwealth, or by the surveyor-generall.

You are to use all expedition in the execution of the aforementioned instructions, that the service of the Commonwealth may not bee retarded thereby; and for the more effectuall performance of the severall duties herein directed, you are hereby authorized to employ such and so many persons under you for writing, ingrossing, and transcribing of such dispositions, surveys, and duplicates, as you are to take and returne by vertue of the above said commission, and to give to each of them such allowance as you shall think fit, provided no unnecessary or immoderate charge bee contracted thereby upon the Commonwealth; and that no one person receive for his paines in writing or transcribing the dispositions and surveys as aforesaid above the rate of twenty shillings per week.

Lastly, you are not without speciall lycense or order in writing from the said commissioners to discover to any person the particular values, extent, or the like certainties of the premisses to bee by you surveyed, according to this commission, other then what was before directed to such as shall bee appointed to admeasure any part of the said premisses, nor to keep any coppies of the same with your selves or with any of those that shall bee employed by you.

Note on the MSS. Materials for the Civil Survey of 1654-56.

(Public Record Office and Quit Rent Office, Ireland).

In the Headfort Collection of Records purchased by the Commissioners of Woods, Forests and Land Revenues of the Crown in 1837 there were several volumes (portion of a complete set) of the Civil Survey made of certain counties of Ireland in the year 1654-5: these volumes were then deposited in their Quit Rent Office, Dublin.

This Quit Rent Office collection of Survey Books included all the barony volumes for the counties of Donegal, Limerick, Londonderry, Meath, Tipperary, Tyrone, Waterford, Dublin (except Newcastle and Uppercross), Kildare (except Ophaley), and Wexford (except Forth). Detailed lists of these barony volumes are given in a Report on the Headfort Collection, printed in the Reports of the Irish Record Commissioners, Vol. II, pp. 21-24.

The Civil Survey was undertaken for seventeen other counties; but it would appear that any Surveys for these counties perished in the fire in the Surveyor-General's Office in 1711. (Essex Street, Dublin).

The Civil Survey consists of Returns of the extent and value of the forfeited lands. It contains very many facts not noted in the particulars and tables accompanying the subsequent mapped Down Survey which was throughout facilitated by the Abstracts made from the Civil Survey.

The Commissioners of Woods, Forests and Land Revenues, at the instance of Mr. J. Harper Scaife, the Superintendent of their Dublin Office, offered this Quit Rent Office Collection of Civil Survey Volumes to the Public Record Office of Ireland, on condition that copies of these Volumes should be prepared in the Public Record Office and furnished to them for constant use in the Quit Rent Office, Dublin.

Mr. James Mills, Deputy Keeper of the Records, gladly accepted the offer. Copies were prepared at the Public Record Office during the years 1900-1910, fresh batches of Civil Survey volumes being deposited there after copies of volumes in the previous batch had been furnished to the Quit Rent Office. By the close of 1910, this work was completed; all the original Civil Survey Books were deposited in the Public Record Office, and copies of them, as stipulated, had been furnished to the Quit Rent Office.

The Quit Rent Office also received a copy of an official copy of the Civil Survey of the barony of Clanmorris, Co. Kerry, presented to the Public Record Office during the above period; the original Survey is not forthcoming.

These Volumes were a very important addition to the Records of the Land Settlement under the Commonwealth already in the Public Record Office. They were then available for public inspection, with every facility. They were highly useful as regards local history and as to certain questions of title. They were specially valuable for topography, the Surveys of some counties being particularly rich in boundary names and place names now often obsolete, or till now unknown.

The principal reason for their transfer was that Records of such value ought to be deposited in the Public Record Office. There they perished in the Summer of 1922.

Happily the Civil Survey copies furnished to the Quit Rent Office, and now deposited there, substantially counter-balance that loss; some of them were compared with the originals by Mr. James Mills, then Deputy-Keeper of the Records, and the remainder by the writer of this Note, then Certifying Officer. All may be accepted as true and authentic copies of the originals destroyed in the year 1922.

MSS. MATERIALS FOR THE CIVIL SURVEY OF 1654-6.

THE CIVIL SURVEY (1654-6) was made for twenty-seven counties and comprehended the whole of Munster, with the exception of county Clare, the whole of Ulster, with the exception of the barony of Farney, county Monaghan, all of Leinster and part of Connacht, namely, the county of Leitrim. NOTE ON MAPS

The outline Map of Meath, showing Boundaries of Baronies, A.D. 1655-57, prefixed to this Volume, is intended to aid the historical student by showing the relative positions and extent of these historic divisions. A few modern place names have been added, to serve as additional guiding points.

THE CIVIL SURVEY, A.D. 1654-56, was followed by the Maps of THE DOWN SURVEY, A.D. 1655-58, made under the direction of Dr. (later Sir) William Petty, Surveyor-General.

As for other Counties, the twelve large-scale Barony Maps of the DOWN SURVEY for Meath have been reproduced, full size, from the set now in the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris. They will be found most useful in connection with the Civil Survey. Prices:—Uncoloured, 2s. 6d. each; coloured as in the Paris Maps, 5s. od. each.

¹ CHURCH LANDS: According to the Q.R.O. Book of S. & D. pp. 67 & 68, the Bishop of Meath was a grantee in respect of the lands of Eynan [Inan], Killian par. Geo. Fitzgerald also appears opposite the same lands as a grantee. With regard to the lands of Killian & Bullinah, in the same parish it is stated, by way of note, that they were "held in fee from the Bishop of Meath—which was surrendered 23 April 1697 & a Lease of 60 years taken out" (see Adventurers and Soldiers Book of Distribution). The Bishop of Meath also appears in the Book of S. & D., with Geo. Fitzgerald as a grantee in respect of the following lands, or part thereof, in Clonard parish: Ballynabarny, Toughlant [Towlaght] Terroughan [Ticroghan], Ardnemullanie & Killvarden. The lands of Annagh and Moydrum (Temporalities of the Bishopric) would appear to have been included in the Terroughan denomination part of which was granted to Sir Theop. Jones. To the foregoing lands should be added Moyfin particulars of which appear on the preceding page.

The Index of Persons includes the names of those returned as the "Possessors" of Tithes as well as of those described, for the various parishes, as Patrons, Incumbents and Vicars.

In the Index of Parishes and Baronies, the latter are printed in capital letters; lands are specified occasionally in the text and these have also been indexed, the name of the parish, at which reference to such lands is made, being indicated within brackets.

LIST OF PUBLICATIONS OF THE IRISH MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION

The Irish Manuscripts Commission was set up in October, 1928, under a Warrant of the President of the Executive Council of Saorstát Éireann. The Commission was established to report on collections of manuscripts and papers of literary, historical and general interest, relating to Ireland, whether in private or public ownership, and also to arrange for and supervise the execution of programmes of publication.

The publications of the Irish Manuscripts Commission comprise the reproduction in facsimile of important codices, so as to enable their contents to be studied in all detail without recourse to the original, and also the publication in separate volumes of material otherwise accessible only in manuscript or in volumes now out of print or extremely rare. The text is printed on superior paper, in clear, legible type, the volumes, for the most part, being bound in dark maroon cloth, with gold lettering, royal 8vo.

Edited by CHARLES McNEILL.

Price 5s. Post Free, 5s. 5½d.

The Register of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in Ireland illustrates the administration of the Irish Grand Priory and the internal economy of the principal house at Kilmainham and of its dependent preceptories at a most interesting period. This is the only document of the Irish Hospital now extant.

THE CIVIL SURVEY (A.D. 1654-'56)

Edited by R. C. SIMINGTON.

- Vol. I. Co. Tipperary, E. and S. Price 10s. Post Free, 10s. 9d.
Vol. II. Co. Tipperary, W. and N. Price 15s. Post Free, 15s. 9d.
Vol. III. Counties Donegal, Derry and Tyrone. Price 21s. Post Free, 21s. 9d.
Vol. IV. Co. Limerick. Price 21s. Post Free, 21s. 9d.
Vols. V. (Meath) and VI (Waterford) are in the Press.

Based on the knowledge and evidence of "the most able and ancient Inhabitants of the Country," the Civil Survey recorded the meares and bounds of the baronies, parishes, and lands of twenty-seven Irish counties, with a description of the soil, its amenities in mills, rivers, and woodlands.

This survey is a unique source of information on the history of Irish families, their lands, homes and place-names and other valuable local particulars. It includes the names of the owners of Irish land before the sweeping Cromwellian confiscations.

GENEALOGICAL TRACTS I.

Edited by TOIRDHEALBHACH Ó RAITHBHEARTAIGH, M.A.

Price 6s. Post Free, 6s. 6d.

These texts serve to furnish a view of the older traditional materials on which the unified scheme (of the professional historians) was based and of the methods and means by which it was composed. They serve to bring into light the earlier traditions and to bring under view the existence and, in many instances the local distribution of racial elements, of ancient septs and kindreds, whose history is ignored, obscured, or artificially reconstructed in the unified scheme.

LEBOR BRETNACH

The Irish Version of the Historia Britonum ascribed to Nennius.

Edited from all the Manuscripts by A. G. VAN HAMEL.

Price 7s. 6d. Post Free, 7s. 10½d.

The principle followed in the present edition of the "Irish Nennius" is one altogether different from the one adopted by Todd in his edition for the Irish Archaeological Society (1848). Its main object is to show the gradual growth of the Irish text from the eleventh to the sixteenth century as revealed by the six surviving manuscripts. This work throws fresh light on the original history in Latin. The volume gives also the Latin text of "Nennius" and a complete new edition of "The Pictish Chronicle."

THE OLDEST FRAGMENTS OF THE SENCHUS MÁR

Facsimile of the Oldest Fragments from MS. H. 2.15 in the Library, Trinity College, Dublin, with descriptive Introduction by R. I. BEST and RUDOLF THURNEYSSEN.

Price £1 10s. Post Free, £1 10s. 9d.

The Senchus Már (Seanchus Mór), well over a thousand years old, is the chief compilation of the Ancient Laws of Ireland.

The three sections presented in this volume are in facsimile and in natural size. They form one of the chief sources for our knowledge of the Senchus: indeed for many parts of the collection they represent the only source which gives us the full text, other manuscripts containing only disconnected and incomplete quotations.

INDEX OF PARISHES AND TOWNLANDS OF IRELAND FROM SEVENTEENTH CENTURY MAPS

Edited by DR. Y. M. GOBLET.

Price 7s. 6d. Post Free, 8s. 3d.

Though there are many valuable and authoritative general or specialized indexes of the Irish place-names as they appear in manuscripts and books, this is the first time that a general index of the Irish place-names in the seventeenth century has been collected from the old maps.

The following is an extract from a review of the work in Studies :—

"Its importance far exceeds all previous investigations of the topographical results of the conquest and confiscation . . . too much praise cannot be given to the thoroughness and fidelity of this notable achievement. . . ."

THE CALENDAR OF ORMOND DEEDS

LETTERS AND PAPERS RELATING TO THE IRISH REBELLION
BETWEEN 1642-46

Edited by JAMES HOGAN, D.Litt.

Price 10s. 6d. Post Free, 11s.

These documents have been edited from the Rawlinson MS. B.507 in the Bodleian Library. There is reason to believe that the collection was compiled at the instance of the first Earl of Anglesey, and was part of the material which went to the making of his manuscript, History of the Late Commotions and Troubles in Ireland, a work now apparently lost.

The documents fill many gaps in existing historical knowledge of the period.

This great work, compiled from a variety of sources, many of which are now no longer known to exist, contains very full pedigrees of all the leading Irish and Anglo-Norman families of Ireland, often accompanied by valuable information as to the location and extent of their territories. Many of the documents will be found of the first historical importance, and the originals and hitherto unpublished papers are numerous. There are, e.g., " Tyrlowe Lenowghe's petitions " of 1580, intimate papers dealing with Essex's revolt and death, the Spaniards at Kinsale, and Hugh O'Neill's submission. THE ANNALS OF LOCH CÉ

Vols. I and II

Reflex Facsimile.

The Annals of Loch Cé, a MS. copied from an earlier volume in 1588, records in annalistic form events from 1014 to 1636, the later entries being additions to the original compilation. The record is a primary one for much of the history of the country within its limits of date. The 1871 edition prepared by W. M. Hennessy for the Rolls Series has long been out of print. The present volumes are reproductions of the 1871 edition, Irish text and English translation being printed in opposite pages.

THE BOOK OF FENAGH

Reflex Facsimile

The Book of Fenagh is a compilation made in the year 1516 on the basis of earlier materials and professing to set forth the dues and privileges claimed by the ancient monastery of Fenagh, Co. Leitrim. The 1875 edition of the Irish text and English translation being now extremely rare, a reproduction of it is here provided at a moderate price.

BOOK OF FENAGH

SUPPLEMENTARY VOLUME

The autograph of the Book of Fenagh having been in private hands in 1875, Hennessy and Kelly worked from O'Donovan's transcript. A collation with the autograph—now in the Royal Irish Academy—is indispensable, so that possessors of the facsimile and of copies of the 1875 edition may have an accurate revision of the text. This revision is supplied in the present volume, which also includes material the text and translation of portions (missing from the autograph and from the transcript) which have come to light since 1875. The volume contains in addition an analysis of the contents and history of the text and of the MS. of the Book of Fenagh.
